Snapchat Planets in Order: Mercury to Neptune (Full List)

The Snapchat Planets order follows the real solar system exactly: Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune. Mercury is your #1 closest friend. Neptune is your #8. Pluto isn't included, only the 8 recognized planets.

VISIT SNAPCHATPLANETSLIST.COM →

Full Order List

Rank	Planet	Represents
#1	Mercury	Your most-active friend
#2	Venus	Your 2nd most-active friend
#3	Earth	Your 3rd most-active friend
#4	Mars	Your 4th most-active friend
#5	Jupiter	Your 5th most-active friend
#6	Saturn	Your 6th most-active friend
#7	Uranus	Your 7th most-active friend
#8	Neptune	Your 8th most-active friend

This order never changes, only which friend fills each spot. Each rank is unique too, no two friends can share the same planet at once.

Why the Order Matters

The closer a planet is to Mercury, the more frequently you interact with that friend, through Snaps, chats, and Story replies. Mercury and Venus usually go to daily contacts, like a sibling or roommate. Uranus and Neptune go to friends you talk to occasionally, like an old classmate.

Example: if you snap your best friend daily but only message a coworker once a week, your best friend lands on Mercury or Venus, while your coworker sits closer to Saturn or Neptune.

This ranking reflects app activity only, not real friendship value. A close friend can still rank lower simply due to time zones or a busy schedule.

Do You Need Snapchat+ to See the Order?

Yes. The Friend Solar System is a Snapchat+ exclusive feature, and it's off by default even after subscribing, you'll need to enable it manually in settings.

A Quick Related Signal

Before checking your full Planets order, you can get a rough idea from your friend's profile itself. A Yellow Heart emoji next to someone's name already tells you they're likely your Mercury, since both signals track the same #1 spot.

FAQ

Is the planet order the same for everyone?

Yes, the sequence (Mercury to Neptune) is fixed for every user. Only which friend fills each spot changes.

Can the order change over time?

Yes, rankings update based on recent activity, not lifetime totals. A quiet week can shift someone from Mercury toward Neptune.

Does Pluto appear anywhere?

No, only the 8 major planets are used.

Want the complete breakdown? See our full Snapchat Planets guide for what each planet means, ranking factors, badges, privacy, and troubleshooting.

SnapchatPlanetsList.com is an independent guide and is not affiliated with, endorsed by, or sponsored by Snap Inc. Snapchat and Snapchat+ are trademarks of Snap Inc.